

Visual Effects Society launches Festival

HOLLYWOOD — The Visual Effects Society (VES) will host "VES '99: A Festival of Visual Effects" from June 4-6, 1999, here, at the Leonard Golden Theatre of the Television Academy. The three-day show will feature a host of seminars focusing on the artistic processes involved in bringing effects to the large and small screen.

Headlining the speaker card at the show will be Industrial Light + Magic (ILM)'s Dennis Muren, John Knoll and Scott Squires, the triumvirate of visual effects supervisors currently working on Star Wars: Episode One — The Phantom Menace, and Rob Coleman, Star Wars: Episode One's animation supervisor, also from ILM. The show's sponsors include SGI, Quantel, IBM, Compaq and Alias|Wavefront.

Headlining the speaker card at the show will be Industrial Light + Magic (ILM)'s Dennis Muren, John Knoll and Scott Squires, the triumvirate of visual effects supervisors currently working on Star Wars: Episode One — The Phantom Menace, and Rob Coleman, Star Wars: Episode One's animation supervisor, also from ILM. The show's sponsors include SGI, Quantel, IBM, Compaq and Alias|Wavefront.

Headlining the speaker card at the show will be Industrial Light + Magic (ILM)'s Dennis Muren, John Knoll and Scott Squires, the triumvirate of visual effects supervisors currently working on Star Wars: Episode One — The Phantom Menace, and Rob Coleman, Star Wars: Episode One's animation supervisor, also from ILM. The show's sponsors include SGI, Quantel, IBM, Compaq and Alias|Wavefront.

POST - April 16, 99